WEDNESDAY MORNING, AUG. 27, 1862.

Improvement of the English Race.

It is often said that some races cannot be improved to a high state of education in arts and civilization. Probably this is true in many cases. In some Indian tribes the effort to improve them, made at great expense of toil and treasure, has failed. This has been the case in this valley, perhaps the result of weakness of the native intellect. In other tribes, especially in those whose homes were originally in the Southern borders of the Southern States, more has been effected; but even there the effort to improve them by civilization and Christianity, has not been as successful as desired.

In regard to the negro race, it may be said that when it has opportunity, and is placed in advantageous circumstances, it has exhibited marked improvement. Instances are often seen, in cases where the race received the benefits of education, that they have made successful merchants, good mechanics, respectable theologians, faithful laborers, and true men. If placed in communities or nations by themselves—a policy which, when they are free, should be steadily persisted in—we should feel a high confidence that they would sustain the character which they have richly earned in the rising Republic of Liberia—a most important germ of civilization and Christianity on the western coast of Africa.

The inhabitants of the British Isles have exhibited a most wonderful transformation from the first period in which history gives us any knowledge of them. When Julius Cæsar, some thousand years ago, landed on the coast of England, he found there a people, ignorant, superstitious and cruel. They lived in rude huts, made by digging holes in the ground, driving stakes about these into the earth, and covering them with branches of trees, and with coarse grasses and turf. They were dressed in the skins of wild beasts, their bodies were tattooed, and they subsisted by hunting and fishing, and on the flesh and milk of their cattle, and were unacquainted with the institution of marriage. They seemed to excel only in a single act, that of making wicker baskets. They had a religion, but it had no tendency to elevate their characters, for they believed in the transmigration of souls, and worshipped the sun and moon and deified men. Their religious ceremonies were performed in shady groves, or in rude temples of huge, rough stones, without roofs, the ruins of which yet remain. Cæsar, in his Commentaries, states that one of their religious ceremonies consisted in making, of wicker-work, a hollow image of a man, about sixty feet in height, filling it with living men, women and children, setting it on fire, and burning these living and unhappy victims in the flames. Lucan, in describing one of their sacred groves, says: "Nothing was to be seen there but multitudes of altars, on which they sacrificed human victims." Pliny says, "They considered it a part of their most solemn and obligatory religion, to put men to death; and to feed on their dead bodies, which they esteemed most wholesome."

These were the original inhabitants of England. The invasions which followed left Romans, and afterwards Saxons, Normans and Danes, who mixed their blood with the natives, and gradually knowledge, with Christianity, improved the condition of this people. As late as William the Conqueror, the best beds were of straw. The early British aristocracy slept on the ground floors of their rude houses. Alfred had not a chair to sit upon, or a chimney to carry off the smoke. Nobles and Danes of the most brilliant early epochs, ate with their fingers, generally in couples out of one trencher, on the bare table. The use of forks, even as late as the days of the royal houses of York and Lancaster, was unknown; and at that time it was considered the hight of fellowship to construct drinking vessels in the shape of inverted cones, so that they could not be made to stand, and must therefore be drained at a draught.

There were some singular rules for eating required to be observed in those times. The cleanliness of fingers, which were used for the delicate office of carrying food to the mouth, were never allowed to perform the functions which are now consigned to the pocket handkerchief—an article which was unknown in those days. In about the year 1400 forks as well as knives were used at tables—with the restriction that the knife was not to be used for cleaning the teeth at the table; nor was it allowable to offer the remains of your dish to another person, to dip meat into the salt cellar or to return food from your mouth to your plate. Evidently at that period there was progress towards some of the refinements of later years.

Before the introduction of Christianity, under Anglo-Saxon rule, the marriage laws afforded no security to either party. The man was not required to protect and cherish the woman. Marriage was merely a matter of convenience, to last as long as suited the parties. Although marriage was not binding against the husband, yet it was sacred against invasion from without. The paramour was subject to specific damages, and was compelled to furnish the bereaved husband with another wife, and pay the expenses of the wedding!

These few items in the past history of the English nation, will show the condition of our English ancestry some two thousand years ago—what it was, in some respects, four and six hundred years since that period; and the condition now of England, her high civilization, her changed circumstances under the reign of Christianity and better laws, show what has been done in two thousand years to raise a people from the condition of savages and cannibals, to a most exalted and improved civilization. The Bible, freedom of thought, freedom of action, the mixture of improved races, have brought about these mighty results.

From the Upper Columbia.

THREE WHITE MEN KILLED BY INDIANS.—We learn from a packer that J. A. Farnham and two others were killed a short time since about 80 miles above Elk City. Three rifle balls and several arrows were found in Farnham's body. There were four in company, and one made his escape. They were attacked by thirteen Indians. Their bodies were found on the trail and buried. Large numbers of Snake Indians were collecting near Fort Boise.—Golden Age.

MORE TROUBLE.—On Monday night Jim Winters, alias Brockey, who twelve months ago killed a man named John Daly, in Portland, terminated a difficulty with James Pierce, at Florence, by drawing his revolver and shooting him. The wound produced death almost immediately. The same day, at Pierce City, Wm. McClure drew his knife upon a miner known as Jack Sullivan, whereupon the latter shot him dead on the spot.—Golden Age, Aug. 22.

JOHN DAY MINES.—Correspondents of the Mountaineer give the following items:

Canyon City contains 500 or 600 inhabitants. The diggings are extensive and generally rich. One claim yielded in one day fifteen ounces, and the next day one pan from the bed rock gave $108. One company hauling dirt to the river on a sledare making $40 a day to the hand. Another company on the river are making from 100 to 200 a day, using a rocker. The digging are deep and it takes considerable time to open them. Flour is $50 per bbl., and none to be had. Sugar, beans, rice, and other articles of that kind, 50 cents per pound.

QUARTZ.—The Mountaineer of the 26th, says: The town was thrown into quite an excitement yesterday morning, by the announcement of the discovery of a rich quartz lead on the John Day; and the further fact that specimens of the quartz had been received, and were to be seen at the store of Bloch, Miller & Co. In common with many others, we wended our way thither, and found inside of a glass show case a sight that would have caused the eye of an anchorite to moisten.—It consisted of a pan full of the richest quartz that has ever come under our notice. The treasure was brought in by a man named Robinson, and was taken from a lead lately discovered in a dry gulch about five miles from Canyon Creek. The quartz specimens were inspected by a number of old California miners, and their uniform expression was that they had never seen anything so rich. Some of the pieces are estimated to be worth $40, and in all of them the gold can be distinctly traced. No such quartz has ever been seen save from the "Inch claim," in Southern Oregon, and its discovery cannot fail to have an important bearing in the future of the John Day country. These specimens will be sent to San Francisco by the next steamer, in order that our California friends may have an opportunity of knowing how our mines are "giving out."

NEW BOAT.—Capt. Gray has been building at the Des Chutes, and will have ready to launch before the close of the week a stern-wheel boat of about 30 tons capacity. She is intended to run between Des Chutes and Lewiston, and it is expected that she will be able to make the trip until the river is closed by ice.—Mountaineer.

THE JACKASS ARTILLERY.—It is related that during the campaign on the Shenandoah one of General Fremont's batteries of eight Parrott guns, supported by a squadron of horse, was in a sharp conflict with a battery of the enemy near at hand, and shells and shot were flying thick and fast, when the commander of the battery, a German, one of Fremont's staff, rode suddenly up to the cavalry, exclaiming, in loud and excited tones, "Pring up de shackasses, pring up de shackasses; for Cot sake hurry up de shackasses, im-me-di-ate-ly!" The necessity of this order will be obvious when it is known that the "shackasses" are mules carrying mountain howitzers, which are fired from the backs of that much abused but valuable animal, and the immediate occasion for the "shackasses" was that two regiments of rebel infantry were at that moment discovered descending a hill immediately behind our batteries. The "shackasses," with the howitzers loaded with grape and canister, were soon on the ground. The mules squared themselves, as they well knew how, for the shock. A terrific volley was poured into the advancing column, which immediately broke and retreated. Two hundred and seventy-eight dead bodies were found in the ravine next day, piled closely together as they fell, the effects of that volley from the backs of the "shackasses."

A dispatch from Los Angeles says: "A water spout burst in the San Francisco canon, some 45 miles from this city, on Saturday, flooding the canon with about fourteen feet of water for several miles. Chevalier and wife, from San Francisco, were passing through the canon at the time. Mrs. Chevalier was drowned as were all their animals. Chevalier was washed down some miles and saved."

A number of men arrived from Colorado yesterday, bringing $5,000 in dust. They say a town has been laid out within half a mile of the river and over one hundred houses had been erected.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Second coupons of the 7 3-10 notes, National Loan, due today, are being paid in coin, on presentation at the Mint.

From this day forth all disbursements at the Assistant Treasurer's office, for all Government dues, salaries etc., will be paid in legal tender notes.

The Hayes' Valley Homestead Association filed certificates of incorporation to-day.

Brigham Young has sent one of his sons to Washington as a member of the delegation now in the capitol lobbying in the political and polygamic interests of Utah. Old Abe, in discussing conjugal matters with him, is said to have remarked that it was absurd to talk about polygamy, as "he never yet heard of a man who having a wife, wanted two."

Arrangements have been concluded for carrying the mails between San Francisco and Puget Sound semi monthly by sea steamers.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Dates to August 21st.

YREKA, Aug. 22.

COLUMBUS, (Ohio) Aug. 21.—A dispatch from Gen. Morgan at Cumberland Gap, says there is considerable excitement on the subject of the rebel demonstration in East Tennessee, and says that there is cause for excitement.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 20.—The rebel Morgan is reported to be at Hartsville with 1,500 men.

FORTRESS MONROE, Aug. 18.—The old bridge across Hampton creek was rebuilt today and a pontoon laid across near it. A large number of troops are encamped about ... miles this side of Newport News to-night. General Burnside is here. There is some talk of his taking a portion of McClellan's command, as it is evident that a part of his army must remain on the Peninsula. Between Hampton and Yorktown there are twenty acres covered by ... on the Hampton railroad, now being built from Hampton to this place.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—The Bulletin's gentleman who left Fortress Monroe last evening furnishes the following: The army of the Potomac had arrived at the lower Peninsula without being molested in the slightest degree.

McClellan, it is understood, was at Williamsburg yesterday morning.

Fitz John Porter's division, which was on the opposite side of James river, has also come down to the Peninsula. Gen. Burnside also arrived Sunday, and went up the James river as far as the Chickahominy to see how operations were going on. He returned yesterday to the Fortress, reporting that everything was satisfactory. The weather was ... most favorable for the regiments. Most of the gunboats had come down the river, but some remain to guard the pontoon bridge across the Chickahominy, over which our army passed on its way down to the peninsula.

NASHVILLE, Aug. 9.—A train from Huntsville, Ala., was fired into to-day near Columbia, Tenn., killing four persons.

The rebels are reported to have evacuated Chattanooga and to be making a Northern march.

Union refugees from Gallatin report that ... houses were burned by the guerrilla Morgan.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Specials to New York papers say the mind of the Government is again agitated to using the censorship of the press. Complaints have been made that new and important movements of the National armies were prematurely published in some of the New York papers. The War Department has determined to order correspondents out of Gen. Pope's lines, also other General's.

We are informed that Gen. Butler will soon be recalled from the Department of the Gulf, and Gen. Dix will take his place with head quarters at New Orleans, and that he will be associated in administration of local affairs with Reverdy Johnson as provisional Governor.

St. Louis, Aug. 20th.—Later in regard to the battle in Jackson county, says the Federal force was moving South from Lexington, Mo., in search of the enemy, when it suddenly fell in with an ambuscade and was assailed on all sides by rebels. The Federals made a stout resistance, but after desperate and bloody fighting, were captured. All reports agree we lost two or three hundred men.

A camp of guerrillas from that county, bound South, were arrested by the Jefferson Home Guards last night. 30 guerrillas were captured.

New York, Aug. 20th.—An army letter to the Times, says the last soldier of the retiring army passed Chickahominy at two o'clock, Thursday evening. There has been no attack on the rear and no losses of any kind.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Specials to the New York papers say: Apprehensions are beginning to be expressed that the rebels, finding it impossible to pursue McClellan, for want of transportation, will suddenly concentrate by means of their railroads in Pope's front, at Gordonsville, and make a desperate effort to overwhelm him before support can arrive. No fears are expressed of any great danger from such a plan, but the probability of its being attempted causes expectation of the speedy renewal of active work beyond Culpepper. It is stated that at the rate the new levies are now moving forward 50,000 additional troops could be given to Pope and McClellan within a week.

The demonstration last night in honor of the returned prisoners was very enthusiastic. Speeches were made by Hon. Alfred Ely and Cols. Corcoran, Bowman and others.

LEXINGTON, (Mo.) Aug. 18.—Gen. Lane has reached here with reinforcements, securing the safety of the place. The gunboat Warner is also here, and can render valuable service.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 19.—John S. Phelps, Military Governor of Arkansas, left yesterday for Helena.

NEW YORK, Aug. 9.—The Times says: "We learn Gen. Stone, who has been many months confined at Fort Lafayette, has been set at liberty, and is now stopping with his family in this city."

MEMPHIS, Aug. 16.—The Grenada Appeal of the 14th states that the Federals took possession of Bayou Sara, seizing all sugar and molasses, and quartering a garrison there. It also states that the rebel ... have been ... forced from Arkansas. The Appeal editorially says: "The sooner we cease to look for foreign aid or European intervention the better for all concerned."

The Newbern (N. C.) Progress states that the final result of the election in North Carolina indicates the defeat of Johnson, secession candidate for Governor, by a majority of 30,000. The Union opposition have elected nearly every member of both branches of the Legislature by still stronger majorities. Every candidate advocating the continuance of the war and the separation of the States has been defeated.

Coughs. The sudden changes of our climate are sources of PULMONARY, BRONCHIAL and ASTHMATIC AFFECTIONS. Experience having proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. PUBLIC SPEAKERS and SINGERS will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

Newell's Pulmonary Syrup is the Greatest Panacea of the Age, for all Diseases of the Throat and Lungs such as Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping Cough, &c., &c. It is agreeable to the taste, soothing, healing, strengthening, safe, simple and efficient far beyond any other preparation.

BEAN SHORT [illegible]
[illegible] P. LAW.

A Rebel Operator Reads Gen Halleck's Dispatches for Four Days

Memphis (Tenn) July 2 [illegible] 1862 — The telegraph line between Memphis and Corinth is exceedingly important [illegible] all Halleck's messages to Commanders [illegible] General Grant and the commandant [illegible] post have all passed over it. [illegible] the line is guarded but of late the rebels have [illegible] from cutting the wire. [illegible] unusual immunity is now explained [illegible] for it!

For a week the Memphis operators have detected something wrong in the working of the instruments and suspected that an outsider was sharing their telegraphic secrets. They communicated their suspicions to the superintendent at Corinth, who promised to keep a sharp lookout.

Yesterday they discovered that the uninvited confidant could talk as well as listen. The transmission of a message was suddenly interrupted by the ejaculation, "O[illegible] boys!" A moment after it was again broken with "Hurrah for Jeff Davis!"

Individuality shows itself as well in telegraphing as in the footprint or in handwriting. Hall, one of the Memphis operators, instantly recognized the performer not by his face, but by his time, as a young man formerly in Buffalo and other Northern offices, but now employed by the Confederates. Hall surprised him by replying promptly, "[illegible] Saville, if you don't want to be hung you had better leave! Our cavalry is closing in on both sides of you!"

There was a little pause, and then the reply: "How in the world did you know me? However I've been here four days and learned all we we want to know. As this is becoming rather a tight place I think I will leave. You'll see me again when you least expect it. Good bye, boys!"

The rebel operator made good his escape. He had cut the wire, inserted a piece of his own, and by a pocket instrument, been reading our official dispatches. Some of utmost importance, giving the very information most desired by the rebels, were passing, and as they were not in cipher, he must have received them. One from General Hovey, Commandant of this post, in reply to a question from General Halleck, stated the precise number of our available men in Memphis (only about 3,000) and their exact location!

The ill effect of this exposure of our weakness has been guarded against as far as possible. General W. T. Sherman has already started for Memphis with two of the three divisions under his command, and will arrive to-day. So we are in no special danger of a rebel dash.

This brilliant and audacious telegraphic feat was performed between here and Moscow, only twenty two miles distant, and probably within fifteen miles of Memphis! We are at a loss here to understand why, after the enemy has disappeared, the magnificent army with which Gen Halleck threatened Corinth is unable to guard two hundred miles of railroad and telegraph, or to furnish fifteen or twenty thousand men for the capture of Vicksburg. We hope that our brilliant successes in the West are not to be followed by an era of How Not to Do It.

AVERAGE YIELD OF GRAIN IN ENGLAND.—The Mark Lane Express of Feb 15, 1862, gives in detail the average yield of wheat, barley, oats, beans and peas in thirty-eight counties in England, from which we find that the grand average yield in bushels per acre, in all those counties is as follows: Wheat, 29 bushels, barley, 37¾; oats, 46½; beans, 32¼; peas, 30.

Farmers will do well to preserve this and compare it with the average yields of the same articles in this country. The lowest average of wheat in any county, is 22¼ bushels per acre in Devonshire, and the highest, 34¼ bushels in Lancashire.

The lowest average of barley is 20 bushels per acre in Shropshire, and the highest 84¼ bushels in Lancashire.

The lowest average of beans is 20 bushels per acre, the highest 41 bushels in Northampton.

The lowest average of oats is 31¼ bushels per acre in Westmoreland, and the highest 56½ bushels in Cambridgeshire.

KENTUCKY.—The following pointed appeal has been published in the Louisville (Ky.) Democrat. It sounds of steel, as well as [illegible]:

Kentuckians! I propose to be one of fifteen hundred or two thousand men who, with their own horses and guns, without expense to the Government, will place ourselves alongside of Morgan and his men in two or three days from the date of our organization, and either whip and drive him from the State or perish in the attempt. Who will be the other? Who will respond to my proposition? Who will stay at home and let a bandit conquer them?

Rise, young men of Kentucky, and let these bastard sons feel your steel from every hill and valley until they or we perish. Let us organize at once.

Those who will join in the expedition can address to me, care of Harney & Hughes, Democrat Office, Louisville.

RICHARD T. JACOB.

THE REV. ROBERT J. BRECKINRIDGE. The Louisville Journal says: "There are few divines who can more deeply feel the sentiment of the patriarch, when he sadly said his children had brought his gray hairs in sorrow to the grave, than the Rev. Robert J. Breckinridge. Two of his sons are actively serving in the rebel army, and one of them is a member of Morgan's marauders. But the old patriot is as firm, as undaunted, as unconquerable, as his ancestor John Knox. His eye still sparkles for his country with the light of vigorous manhood; his step is still firm, and his courage is all that Kentucky demands of her sons. What a brilliant page of the history of this Southern rebellion have the deeds of this noble Kentuckian written. His name is honored wherever freedom under the restraints of law is recognized as a blessing to man, and will be as eternal as the Alleghanies which tower toward the heavens. The Morgan pirates made many efforts to steal this renowned Kentuckian in their recent piratical excursion."

The newly born infant of the Queen of Spain has received one hundred and twenty four names.

I [illegible] my part [illegible] I will [illegible] for my country and my [illegible] strike my dagger at her heart [illegible] I will defend her glory [illegible] In a just cause I will die for [illegible] State at every point [illegible] against [illegible] battles against the law and the Constitution [illegible] heart, I [illegible] I will not [illegible] Never! Strike at the flag of our country! Jeff Davis [illegible] down the stars and stripes, the eagle which [illegible] high aloft is the emblem of [illegible] mighty nation, give up that flag for the [illegible] strike that eagle from his high place and coil around the stars the rattle snake! The serpent stole into the Garden of Eden and [illegible] to Heaven in the ear of Eve, and now the serpent would seduce us from our allegiance to our country. Were it possible for him to coil [illegible] around the flag I would tear him from the field and crush him beneath my feet! The rattlesnake for the eagle! If you follow the serpent your fate will be Adam's. Measureless woe for all generations has been that fate. Hell was created because of that treason to Heaven, and if we follow the serpent, our fate will be to sink into the hell of Secession! This is the fate which befalls you if you follow Davis!"
